Actions to Promote OA principles within ISS Research Staff

> INTERNAL SURVEY

Exploring researchers' attitudes on publishing activities

> ACTIVE COMMITMENT

Signing of Berlin Declaration in 2006 Signing of petition to European Commission in 2007

> SHARING EXPERIENCES

International conference on institutional archives for research organised at ISS in 2006: (conference proceedings available on ISS web site)

> REPOSITORY FILLING

Regulating the deposit of internal research output in DSpace ISS

> TEACHING and TRAINING

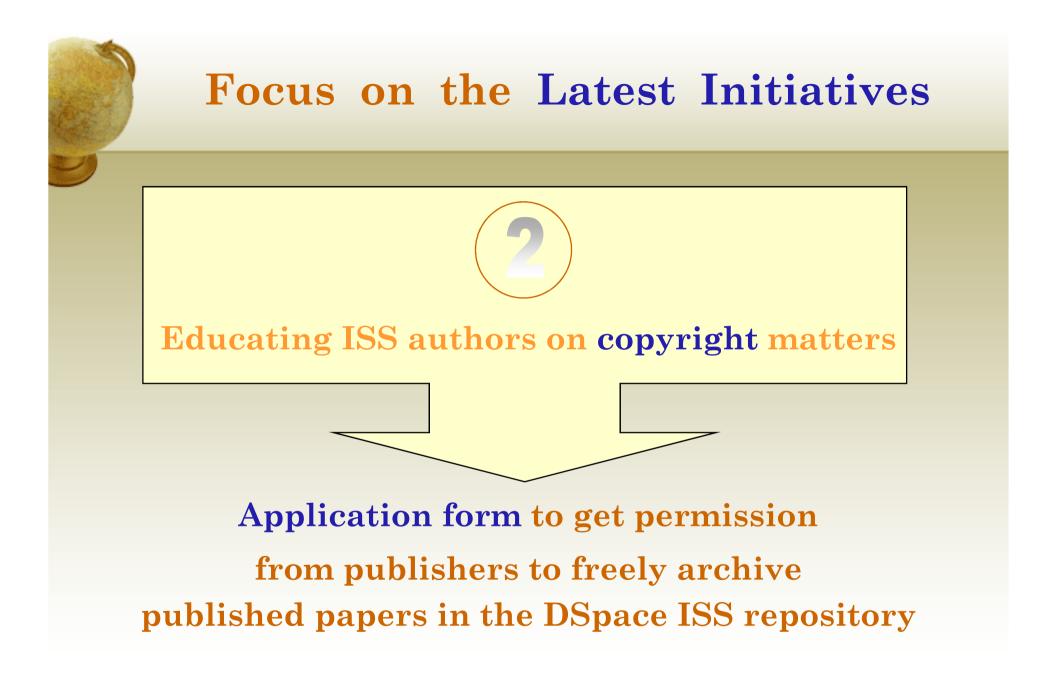

Regular courses for internal research staff

Open Access Journals Researchers' views

Author-pays model

- Researchers dislike author publishing charges
- Article processing fees harm the reputation of journals by publishing poor-quality research

IF rating

• The lack or low value of IF leads researchers to consider OA journals as no authoritative sources

Factors in decision to submit to a journal

- Journal reputation
- Perceived quality of the journal

Open Access Journals Opinions of some ISS authors

- OA per se is not automatically associated to more citations instant availability wider readership intrinsic merit of works increased audience
- from Journal Impact factor to single paper value single article citations \implies true impact of a research
- Scientific publishing is a business
 - article publication charges are the price authors pay for recognition
 - authors are pressured by influential journals

Open Access Journals Study on ISS Literature Production

AIM

Assess preferences of ISS researchers when selecting a journal to publish in

OBJECT

articles published over the period 2003-2007 (June) by an ISS highly productive Department, on OA and non-OA journals

RESULTS only 5.2% (34/651) are OA articles appeared on 9 OA journals (3.9% of the total journals)

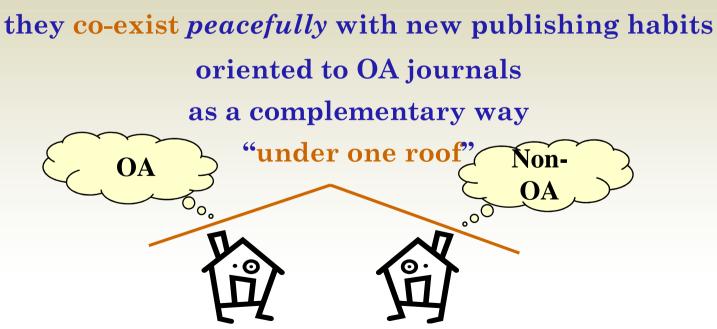

Open Access Journals Study on ISS Literature Production

Subscription-based journals with high IF continue to exert a strong appeal on ISS research staff nevertheless

Final remarks

Defining an internal policy which mandates researchers to deposit their published papers in the repository and adjusting educational programs accordingly

2. Fostering the adoption of the OA publishing model, as publicly funded research is expected to be free
